CISM148 : Problem Solving Using Scripting

Presents students with concepts and techniques for solving problems using a scripting language, a query language, and basic hypertext markup language. Covers data types, control structures, input/output, graphical user interface, and data access and exploration. Introduces students to application development using an integrated development environment.

Credits 4
Lecture Hours 4
Lab/Clinical/Field Study Hours 0
Prerequisite Courses
CISM125: Introduction to Computers