

EDUC/HSRV126: Introduction to Special Services

Interdisciplinary survey of current research, practice and trends in the identification of children and adults with developmental disabilities and other special needs. The services required supporting quality education, training and development through the life span will be described. Intended for students interested in the fields of special education and human services for the developmentally disabled.

Credits: 3

Notes:

(This courses is on inactive status.)

Lab Hours: 0

Lecture Hours: 3

Prerequisites:

PSYC135 or CDCC/PSYC110 or HSRV115, or permission of instructor.

Program: Education

Semester Offered:

Spring